

FINALIZED SCHEDULE
(REVISED 10 JULY)

Fourth International Academic Conference of Analytical Psychology & Jungian Studies

Sponsored Jointly by the International Association for Jungian Studies
(IAJS) and the International Association for Analytical Psychology (IAAP)
and
Universidade Catolica Portuguesa, Faculdade de Filosofia
Braga, Portugal

THEME:
JUNG'S ANALYTICAL PSYCHOLOGY IN CONVERSATION WITH A CHANGING WORLD

18 JULY (WEDNESDAY) TO 21 JULY (SATURDAY), 2012

Information regarding registration, accommodations, and travel can be found on the IAJS and IAAP websites.

Five Important Notes to Presenters:

First, if you are on a panel with three presenters, each presenter has thirty minutes for presentation and discussion; if you are on a panel with two presenters, each presenter has forty-five minutes for presentation and discussion. *These times must be followed to keep the program on schedule.

Second, the program committee has assigned a moderator for each panel, from among the presenters. The moderator will need to introduce each presenter (name, position or title, and title of paper), and will need to keep the panel on schedule (see above).

Third, if you are presenting in Portuguese, the program committee requests that you provide some reasonable number of hardcopy translations into English for English-speaking colleagues. Some Portuguese-language presentations can be provided with simultaneous translation, but unfortunately, not all can be. Portuguese-language presentations held in the main auditorium (as noted below) will receive simultaneous translation. Portuguese-language presenters are encouraged to send English-language translations to the program committee ahead of the conference; we will see that they are forwarded to the conference site for help in copying the required number of hard copies. We appreciate your help in assuring the best communication among colleagues who do not share languages.

Fourth, for those in poster sessions (in response to several questions): each of you will be provided with a poster board (120cm x 90cm) upon which you can post your paper and supporting materials. It will be available throughout the conference for attendees to read, and seek your comments. During the poster session to which you have been assigned, you are asked to stay by your poster and present your work for at least ten minutes for attendees who will move from poster to poster. If possible, you should bring some copies of your paper for those who wish to retain a copy of your work.

Fifth: A message for all presenters of the forthcoming conference, Jungian Psychology in Conversation with a Changing World, at Universidade Catolica Portuguesa, Braga, Portugal.

The conference Program Committee has established a special sub-committee to oversee publications of selected conference papers. The committee comprises the following members, Lucy Huskinson (IAJS), Murray Stein (IAAP), Luke Hockley (IAJS), Axel Capriles (IAAP), Terence Dawson (IAJS), and Angela Connolly (IAAP).

There will be a number of opportunities to publish your paper after the conference, including the following two exciting publications that are planned.

A book of papers that is representative of the conference and its theme (with a view to being published by Routledge). And a special issue of the International Journal for Jungian Studies.

We shall be in touch again after the conference with further details on how to submit your paper for consideration in either of these publications. Please note that submissions must be in good English and prepared according to Routledge specifications.

With best wishes from the Publications Committee.
